DOGS AID POSSES HUNT BOY ON PEAK

MILLINOCKET, Me., July 19.—Two posses of 150 men each crawled up the steep slopes of Mt. Katahdin today hoping to find 12-year-old Donn Fendler of Rye, N. Y., still alive.

Lost on the mountain since Monday, the missing boy has supposedly been without food or shelter for more than 48 hours.

NEAR FREEZING

Near-freezing temperatures on the windswept peak, highest in Maine, have added to his peril, as have treacherous ravines and gorges in the area where he was last seen.

Searching parties on foot were using two bloodhounds today in an effort to locate and follow the lost youngster's trail.

Plans to search by plane were blocked by lower-hanging clouds which shrouded much of the mountain at recurrent intervals.

IN TRAINED SCOUT

Young Fendler, an Boy Scout, has had training in clearing for himself in an emergency such as he now faces since he became separated from a climbing party of other boys.

But veteran guides and woodsmen pointed out that so lengthy a stay on the mountain, without food or equipment, would test the hardihood of even the strongest and most resourceful adult.

FATHER OFFERS REWARD

Donald Fendler, father of the lad, offered a $500 reward and personally joined the search. Henry Fendler, a brother, was also among the searchers.

An growing fears were felt for Donn's safety, officials of the Maine forestry department ordered an airplane sent to aid in the hunt.

Despite the generally fair weather, the searching parties were hampered by large clouds which swept across the sides of the mountain.

Heavy mist hid visibility at a minimum and chilled the searchers.

HUNT LOST BOY—Two posses—300 searchers in all—combed the steep slopes of Mt. Katahdin, near Millinocket, Me., today in a feverish hunt for 12-year-old Donn Fendler of Rye, N. Y., missing for two days.

10 IN PORT AFTER SEA HUNGER FIGHT

After five nerve-racking days and nights of hardship and peril, adrift far at sea off Georges Banks, the skipper and nine-man crew of the crippled New Bedford scallop-dragger Four Sisters were brought safe at last into Boston today.

Their little vessel, rendered helpless by a broken engine clutch, was towed 175 miles into port here by the Boston trawler Mary F.

WATER EXHAUSTED

The rescue was in nick of time, for the supply of drinking water aboard the Four Sisters had been exhausted since Sunday and her captain and crew had been quenching their increasing thirst with melted ice from the storage hold.

The store of food on the dragger was also low and had been strictly rationed by the skipper on an average of a few mouthfuls per man per meal.

The Four Sisters' engine breakdown occurred Thursday of last week, 160 miles southeast of Provincetown.

All that night and most of the next day, Engineer Leo Bennett and Captain Charles Tapper, assisted by crew members, labored in a vain effort to repair the faulty clutch.

The helpless dragger was drifting fast before a brisk southeast breeze, but when attempt was made to drop anchor, the cable wouldn't reach bottom, according to the stinky Skipper Tapper told today.

Contact was established through another ship to the radio-equipped trawler Ebb and word was flashed ashore.

The Coast Guard immediately began an intensive search for the four sisters, which continued fruitlessly until today, with the cutter Tahoe, two patrol boats and two airplanes participating.

CAPTAIN'S STORY

"We were southeast of George's Banks when we had our breakdown. But we were northeast of the banks and drifting further out to sea when the Mary F. finally picked us up," Captain Tapper said.

"It was good the Mary F. reached us when she did. We were pretty hungry and mighty thirsty, too. The water we got from melting ice from our scallop hold wasn't very tasty—and there wasn't enough of it."

"We couldn't wash and we couldn't shave. Even Mr. Terrace O'Toole, our Spits dog mascot, was beginning to look the worse for wear."

Belden Captain Tapper and Engineer Bennett aboard the Four Sisters were the captain's two sons, Charles, Jr., and George, of New Bedford; Cook Andrew Meade of New Bedford; Gordon McCabe, of Fairhaven; and Wallace Caswell, Edward Herrick, Oscar Sorenson and Dennis McCue, all of New Bedford.

They were busy today at the Fish Pier, unloading their catch of 1000 gallons of scallops and putting the Four Sisters in order for another fishing trip after her engine has been repaired.

HI, HO, BOSTONI!—Happy at sight of land after drifting aboard fishing dragger "Four Sisters," disabled off Provincetown with motor trouble, are those members of the crew, Edward Herrick, Wallace Caswell, Charles Tapper, Jr., Gordon McCabe, George Tapper, holding mascot, "Terry." They reached port under tow of rescue craft.

Neutrality Bill Blocked; F. D. to Pray for Peace

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—A White House aide said today President Roosevelt would have to call a special session of Congress to act on neutrality legislation should a crisis develop in Europe after adjournment.

The statement came from Stephen Early, Mr. Roosevelt's press secretary.

Then asked whether the President was going to take the neutrality issue to the country, Early replied:

"I'm certain of one thing, that from the time Congress adjourns until it reconvenes in January, the President will pray as never before in all his life that there will be no new crisis in Europe."

The President reluctantly accepted last night the advice of Senate leaders that he should abandon hope of obtaining neutrality revision—principally repeal of the arms embargo—this session but there were strong indications that from now until the issue arises at the start of the next session he will take his fight for repeal directly to the people.

WILL ACCEPT CHALLENGE

Chairman Pittman (D.) of Nevada, of the Senate foreign relations committee, who attended the conference last night, said he did not think any fight Mr. Roosevelt might make would take the form of President Wilson's famous campaign for the League of Nations.

Mr. Wilson stumped the nation for support of the league.

"On the other hand," Pittman said, "it would be quite natural for him in any speeches he might make in regard to the general welfare to express his position with regard to neutrality legislation."

So senators said that should the President carry his side of the controversy to the people they would be prompt to accept the challenge.

Among these was Senator Johnson (R.) of California, an adamant opponent of administration neutrality proposals, who told reporters that "if the President does go to the country we'll go, too. We'll go on the slogan that this country wants no war."

According to some persons present at last night's meeting, Mr. Roosevelt expressed an intention to take the neutrality struggle to the country during a heated discussion with Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, one of the Senate's most outspoken critics of administration foreign policy.

But Early said he was in doubt

RESCUE 2 STRANDED IN BOAT

After drifting helplessly in a power fishing boat four miles off shore for more than eight hours, a Lynn policeman and a companion were rescued early today.

The two, George Malzard, Swampscott boatman, and Arthur Pratt, Lynn patrolman, headed out to deliver a load of whitefish. About four miles off shore their engine broke down and all efforts at making repairs proved futile.

Finally, John Dowell, owner of the craft, sent a man named Kehoe out to look for the men. Kehoe found Malzard and Pratt at midnight, cold and exhausted, but otherwise unharmed.

Frenchman Plans Hollywood-Jibuti Hop

MAINEVILLE, July 19 (AP)—The famous French aviator, Renevue Major Maurice Rossi, announced today he would leave soon for California to attempt to regain the non-stop distance record he once held by flying from Hollywood to Jibuti, French East African port.

Rossi said that on his attempt at a new mark he would fly across the United States, take the North Atlantic route over Newfoundland and Ireland, fly over Paris and then head for Syria and land at Jibuti "if I can make it." Syria is about 8000 miles from Hollywood, Jibuti about 9000.

WONDERLAND

LOOKEE, GOVERNOR!—Horrors, what's this! Willo Sheridan, "Miss Michigan Aviation," came to New York to see those "wicked spots" the governor of her native state, Lauren Dickinson, lambasted, and promptly succumbed to their "hellish beckoning." Here she actually takes a drink (can it be alcoholic?) in a Gotham nightclub.

Girl Tells Own Story Of N. Y. 'Peril Hunt'

(Editor's Note: Sent to the World's Fair as "Miss Michigan Aviation" by Governor Luren Dickinson who recently criticized the "hellish" perils of "high life" he found at a conference of governors in Albany and New York, Miss Willo Sheridan sought to find the places and things her state's chief executive condemned. In the following story, written for the New York Journal and American and International News Service, Miss Sheridan tells what she found in a tour of Broadway and New York's night clubs.)

By WILLO SHERIDAN

NEW YORK, July 19 (INS)—Don't mention sin to me. Don't tell me about the hellish perils of New York City. Don't try to tell me that fatal pitfalls await the young girl who dares to venture out after dark.

I am writing this at 4 a. m., after a whitewashed inspection of New York's gay spots, and naturally I'm drowsy, so don't blame me if this story doesn't win the Pulitzer prize.

After visiting the Penthouse Club, the New Yorker Ice Terrace, the Stork Club, the Astor Roof and the Havana Madrid, I must declare, with all due apologies to Governor Dickinson, that I didn't see a thing that even my mother, who is pretty strict, could possibly object to.

I didn't see a single person acting drunk and I certainly didn't see any innocent young girls on the "hellish brink."

All I could observe was a lot of nice people apparently having a lot of fun, exactly as they would in the good places of Detroit, where I work.

Everywhere I went, to my great amazement, everyone seemed to know exactly who I was, and all about the governor's statements about New York.

Ever since I started out I've been kidded to death about it all, and by

G-Men Hunt Convict Kidnapers of Ex-Wife

NORTHAMPTON, July 19—G-men took a hand today in a fastwidening search for James Kehoe, 24-year-old former convict, and his young and pretty ex-wife, Mrs. Bernice Beckwith, whom he kidnapped at gunpoint.

MISSING—BUT WRITES

Missing since June 23, Mrs. Mary Ronzio of Malden today wrote her husband, Richard, that she is "all right and getting along fine." She warned that he "had better tell the cops to stop looking for me or I will do something dreadful." The envelope was postmarked West Lynn.

Seeking to rescue the woman captive, state and local police here encircled a 40-mile wooded area in one of the most intensive man-hunts ever organized in Massachusetts.

Meanwhile, U. S. Department of Justice Agent William Hayward of Northampton was ordered into the case, on the theory that Kehoe would seek to flee the state and thus make himself liable to federal prosecution under the so-called Lindbergh kidnaping law.

The police search hereabouts was pressed with all possible zeal, however, as fears increased for the safety of the kidnapped girl who divorced her convict husband while he was in prison and then married again.

Kehoe's mad love for her and his desire for revenge against her second husband supposedly influenced him to commit the bold crime which made him a fugitive today. With orders to seize him, dead or alive, state troopers and volunteer possees scoured woods and swamps in Granby, Belchertown and Amherst areas, visiting all camps and roadside cabins.

State police charge that Kehoe kidnaped his former wife, her new husband, Cyril A. Beckwith, and a Northampton plumber, Leroy Langdon, after threatening all three with a revolver.

Shrieking for mercy from Kehoe, the young divorcee-bride was last seen in Granby, where Beckwith and Langdon were released from the machine.

The latter two said Kehoe ordered them to "beat it" in a section so deserted that it took them two hours to communicate with police.

100 SEARCH WOODS

The hunt centered today in wide wooded areas and on scores of little-used country roads. Other searches were on the lookout in Hudson, Kehoe's home.

In command of Lieutenant John F. McLaughlin, state troopers from the Northampton, Shelburne Falls and Monson barracks suggested nearly 100 towns and city policemen engaged in the search.

Mrs. Beckwith was separated from her present husband and a 50-mile cross-country route in which Kehoe allegedly sat in the rear seat of the automobile, gun in hand, beside Langdon.

The nerve-wracked husband had been forced to drive the machine,

'WARNING' IS SENT BY MISSING WIFE

Threatening to "do something dreadful" unless he calls off a police search for her, Mrs. Mary Ronzio, missing Malden wife, today wrote her husband, Richard, for the first time since her disappearance June 23.

The letter, postmarked from the West Lynn postal station and dated July 18, said the 21-year-old wife was "all right and getting along fine," but it did little to cheer Mrs. Ronzio's mother, Mrs. Cilia Castucci, who is near prostration at the Ronzio's Highland avenue home.

"You had better tell the cops to stop looking for me, or else I will do something dreadful," the missing woman wrote. "Besides, I didn't do anything to be ashamed of."

"Tell the folks I am all right and getting along fine. The idea of putting what you did in the paper makes me laugh."

"If you all had done everything you were supposed to do, everything would be all right."

Ending with a promise to write again, the letter was signed "Mary."

DAWN HOPE NOEL AND HER MOTHER Reunited in Suicide Deaths

Nudist Girl Kills Self After Camp Tryst Row

HOLLYWOOD, July 19 (AP)—The 19-year-old wife of a dance band leader was dead today of a bullet police said she fired herself as the climax of an argument with her husband over a four-hour absence from a nudist colony where they spent the week-end.

Police Captain Dalton R. Patton said an investigation had convinced him Dawn Blood Noel, daughter of the once-noted Broadway actress, Adele Blood, was a suicide. Details of the shooting were subdued out by 36-year-old Herbert (Jimmy) Noel, her husband of 18 months.

Noel said he and his wife entertained at a "big party" at their home Saturday night. On Sunday they went to the nudist resort, of which they had been members for several months. They returned home Sunday night and he slept until Monday noon.

"Monday afternoon, Ray Huber and a girl I know only as Jeanette came by and we all went to the camp," Noel asserted. "That night, Dawn, Huber and Jeanette went down to North Hollywood to get our car and feed our dogs."

"I learned that Jimmy Fry left the camp at about the same time and met my wife and Huber and Jeanette. They stayed at our house awhile but came back to the camp at about 10 o'clock and we all stayed there all night."

"We returned home early this morning and I called Huber on the telephone to hawl him out for arranging a meeting between Dawn and Jimmy Fry. As I talked I could hear Dawn crying. Then I heard the noise like a rap pistol. I rushed into her bedroom and found her dead."

Mrs. Noel had been receiving $550 a month from her mother's estate. Noel said his wife had seemed despondent and melancholy much of the time since her mother killed herself on the grounds of the Westchester Country Club, Port Chester, N. Y., in September, 1935.

NEW FIGHT ON PARDON QUIZ CASH

The House expected a floor fight over the additional appropriation to carry on the pardon and parole probe, as administration leaders joined members of the special investigating committee in demanding the full $10,000 asked by the commission.

With its original request for the money slashed in half by the joint ways and means committee, the commission secured administration backing, and forced withdrawal of the ways and means committee recommendation, and plans to fight it out on the floor, if the committee does not fall into line, it was learned.

The committee made its slash after a sensational report of progress by the commission recommending drastic changes in the legislation governing the pardoning of convicts.

Fine, imprisonment, or both, for buying pardons formed the backbone of the recommendation.

With danger of a cut in their requested appropriation, members of the commission declared they will battle to the last ditch to get the full amount, without which they feel they cannot press the inquiry to its final conclusion.

Crane Mishap Jams Fellsway

Highway traffic to and from Boston along the Fellsway, Medford, was temporarily blocked when a huge power crane, mounted on an auto truck, hooked the trolley wire of the Sullivan square Fellsway street car line and ripped down several hundred feet of the electrically charged wire.

No one was injured, but the sputtering of the wire as it was short-circuited scared passing motorists for a time. The crane, owned by a Rosindale contracting firm, was on its way to the Mystic marsh sewer project in Medford and Somerville.

DOOD IMPROVING

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Dr. William E. Dodd, former United States ambassador to Germany, was reported "improving rapidly" in Mt. Sinai Hospital today. Physicians said he would be able to leave the hospital "very soon."

Sneezing Stars Described by Harvard Savant

PARIS, July 19 (AP)—Stars of the firmament which have been trying for ages to "sneeze"—without any luck—were described today by a Harvard astronomer to a conference of American and European colleagues.

Dr. Sergei Gaposchkin said the would-be sneezers may be a type of "baby" novae—a branch of the exploding star family which has never made the grade in letting off steam.

Ordinary novae explode to a brilliance of about 40,000 times that of the sun, because of internal disequilibrium, the scientist said, while the supernovae explode to 1,000 times the brilliance of the novae, "probably due to some great cosmic catastrophe, such as a star collision."

But the "baby" novae—also known to astronomers as S. S. Cygni stars—puff up "like balloons, subside, and then remain quiet for a while before puffing up again."

Their attempts to work off their heavenly sniffs, Gaposchkin said, are exhibited in fluctuating "it from bright to dim and back to bright again in a period of about 30 days."

These "baby novae," he explained, are about as big as the earth but have about as much mass as the sun, and twice its heat.

Fire Razes Summer Home of Sen. Bridges

CONCORD, N. H., July 19 (AP)—The summer home of Senator H. Styles Bridges at Riverhill, near here, was destroyed by fire early this morning.

Firemen from the Penacook station reported that when they arrived at the camp, on the Contoocook river, the house, which was built in 1899, and recently renovated, was burned to the ground.

HELLINGER'S WIFE ROBBED

HOLLYWOOD, July 19 (AP)—Mrs. Mark Hellinger, wife of the writer, reported the theft of $675 in jewels from her home today. She told police the jewelry included a $2500 diamond ring and a $3000 platinum bracelet.

WIDOW SHOOTING LAID TO JEALOUSY

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 19—Mad jealousy, police said today, drove Edward Shappy, 45, boarder in the home of Mrs. Viola Myers, to pump four bullets into the attractive young mother's head, then turn a gun on himself.

Mrs. Myers, who at 34 is the twice-widowed mother of five small children, was fighting desperately for life in the hospital, where surgeons removed four slugs from her head.

POLICE AT BEDSIDE

In a desperate effort to save her life, surgeons at Bishop DeGoesbriand Hospital today removed two bullets from her brain.

Two more bullets, one of which passed through her shoulder, remained lodged in her skull.

In another hospital, Shappy lay critically wounded, with a bullet so near his brain that doctors were forced to delay operating. A police guard was stationed at his bedside.

According to Police Chief Arthur W. Thalacker, Shappy had been in an "ugly mood" since Friday, when Mrs. Myers' cousin, Val Gelinas, returned to his home in Leominster, Mass., after a visit here.

"So far as it can be learned, petty, unreasonable jealousy, aroused by the visit of Mrs. Myers' cousin, started the trouble," Chief Thalacker said.

FOUND BY NEIGHBORS

The chief said neighbors heard shots and ran to the lakefront home of Mrs. Myers to find her standing outside with blood pouring from her forehead.

Then, Thalacker quoted witnesses, Shappy burst from the house with a revolver in his hand. "I'm not badly wounded," the woman cried defiantly.

The man, Chief Thalacker said, answered derisively:

"Oh no?"

He then fired another shot into her head, the chief said witnesses reported.

Officers later found Shappy in

Mystery Woman Search Continues

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 19—Police throughout New England joined in a search today for a 60-year-old mystery woman, described on a police blotter as "a little old fashioned lady."

Search was ordered when a worried hotel keeper notified police that the woman, who registered as "Mrs. M. Marney, Second street, Dover," had vanished, leaving her bag behind.

AID VET'S STARVING FAMILY

Things were looking up today for a Roxbury World War Veteran, his wife and their seven children—they had steak. And steak to them was a real luxury, for during the previous 36 hours they had nothing but a loaf of bread and tea in their George street home.

Hub Woman Flyer Foils Death in Air

A Boston woman flyer's narrow escape from flaming death in a forced landing on the infield at the Narragansett race track in Rhode Island was revealed today.

The flyer, Mrs. Hortense Harris, governor of the Boston chapter of the "Ninety-niners," women pilots' organization, barely cleared high tension wires carrying power to the track as she sidestepped her Fairchild monoplane in for a perfect landing.

FACES PERIL IN AIR

The emergency landing, caused by a leaky gas line which developed on a flight to New York, was dismissed as "purely routine" by Mrs. Harris, whose husband is H. H. Harris, president of the General Alloys Corporation, with a local plant on First street, South Boston.

First intimation of trouble came only a few minutes out of Boston when the motor began to sputter, and Mrs. Harris, discovered her fuel supply was low.

"She had about 1800 feet altitude, which gave her a six-mile circle in which to land," Harris said.

"She had about four fields to pick from, and she chose the race track because it looked just about ideal."

AN EXPERT PILOT

The plane, which the couple use to commute between the General Alloys Boston headquarters and the plant in Champagne, Ill., can be landed on a high school baseball diamond if necessary, he declared.

Mrs. Harris has been flying for five years, and has held a pilot's license for the past two years.

"As far as I'm concerned, she can fly anywhere she wants to, any time," Harris declared. "She's a thoroughly competent pilot."

Former Barnstable Representative Dies

Former State Representative E. Hayes Small, 62, who, until last year, represented the second Barnstable district three consecutive terms, died today in a Boston hospital after several heart attacks.

Small, long prominent in Boston politics, was defeated for re-election last year. He recently was appointed inspector of dairies for Bristol and Barnstable counties.

Evicted, Asks Loan of Tent

PLYMOUTH, July 19—Arthur W. Weston, 40, World War veteran, and father of six children, had a real problem today after being evicted from his home on Cherry street.

For the truck with which he works on a WPA project was piled high with family belongings—and no one had come forward in answer to his appeals for a tent.

"If I can get a tent," Weston said, "I'll be all right."

"There is room for my wife and the girls at her mother's home and I and the boys could live in the tent."

Weston, a member of the Plymouth forest fire department for 16 years, was evicted on court order after the rent in his home was raised in a year from $14 to $22. The money he earns on WPA, he claims, is not sufficient to care for his family needs.

Ice Cream Making 232 Million Industry

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Next time you eat ice cream consider the success story of this national dessert.

The federal bureau of home economics said today that although the wholesale production of ice cream began less than a century ago, it is now a $232,000,000-a-year industry. The average annual consumption is eight and a half quarts a person.

Honest Thief Takes $3 From Bag, Leaves $20

A 200-pound handbag snatcher who apparently needed only $3 was sought today by Cambridge police, after Kay West, of Alewife Brook parkway, Cambridge, reported her handbag had been seized as she was walking home from the Massachusetts avenue car line.

The handbag contained $23, Miss West said. Police, searching the neighborhood, found the purse in a back yard. It still had $20 in it.

The father, William Jacobs, 44, veteran of the 153th Depot Brigade, had only a few days ago lost his WPA job. The family includes his wife, Beatrice, and their seven children, William, 14, Augusta, 12, Harold, 9, Arthur, 8, Barbara, 4, Walter, 2, and Beatrice, 1.

Gradual drop in the family fortunes found them without food when worried neighbors notified authorities.

The steak came from an emergency welfare order provided by Welfare Commissioner William G. O'Hare, who made further plans to see they are cared for. A welfare visitor will investigate the case.

Jacob explained that he had been dropped from the soldiers' relief rolls on June 27 and was discharged from a WPA project in South Boston last Thursday.

Yesterday morning, Mrs. Jacobs, a frail little woman weighing less than 100 pounds, walked two miles from her home to the Hancock st. Dorchester, welfare office to apply for aid.

Jacob charged he was dropped from his WPA job after a foreman accused him of "stalling" when he requested lighter work because an arthritis condition made it painful for him to lift heavy crates.

Girl's Nuptial Plans Await Ma's Arrival

Locksmiths laughed at love today as jail bars held a 20-year-old "runaway" from the arms of her fiancé, to whom she was to have been married in September.

Now, in the House of Detention, she awaits the arrival from Newark, N. J., of her mother, whom she hasn't seen for seven years.

The girl who would wed is Miss Wladislaw Wawrzankowska, 20 years and 10 months old, who planned to marry Henry Halay, 25, of Hancock street, Dorchester.

The couple had joyfully announced their engagement at a party last Thanksgiving day. Halay was allowed in the prison to see her, and spent the whole morning at her side, while friends strove to effect her release.

Her discovery here, made only after she had lived and worked in Dorchester for almost seven years, came when she sought a baptismal record from Magr. Paul Kappeck, pastor of St. Catherine's Church, Newark.

The parents were notified and Newark authorities then communicated with Boston police.

The girl told police that she came right to Boston in 1932, obtained work as a waitress despite her age and had worked here ever since.

But unless her mother, Mrs. Veronica Wawrzankowska, agrees to drop the runaway complaint, the Boston police are going to turn her over to Newark authorities.

Savants Settle Row Over Dogs

J. Watson Flett, chairman of the Belmont board of selectmen, emerged today as truly a "town father" after successfully officiating as peacemaker between two Harvard professors—both of whom have dogs who like to fight.

The professors, who Chairman Flett declared have "forgiven and forgotten," are Dr. Fabian Packard, of Harvard Business School and C. Harold Berry, professor of mechanical engineering, both of whom live in Washington street, Belmont.

Dr. Packard, bitten while attempting to halt a fight between his Spitz dog, Teddy, and Professor Berry's Airedale, Royal, asked that his neighbor's dog be destroyed or restrained.

Chairman Flett, as peacemaker, announced that Royal was going to be allowed to live and that masters of both dogs had called it quits.

Halt Worcester School Blaze

WORCESTER, July 19—Fire breaking out in the auditorium of the old Commerce High school swept the top floor of the building today, causing $10,000 damage and threatening nearby structures.

Smoke was pouring from the upper windows of the five-story building when Patrolman Herbert Harrington discovered it and rang in the alarm.

As firemen were arriving on the scene, flames broke through the roof. Sparks and fire flashed in the sky, temporarily endangering the new Commerce High building across Maple street.

CANDID CAMERAS AT REVERE

Revere Beach is the happy hunting ground for amusement bargain seekers today, and it's a happy hunting ground for the Boston Record-American's Candid Camera Cavalade, too.

For today is Nickel Day, and of course Record-American readers are out in full force with the coupons they clipped yesterday and this morning.

The Candid Camera man wanted to see the fun, too, and get a photo-record of it, so today they are moving Revere Beach, as well as downtown Boston.

They want to catch you working, they want to catch you shopping, and they want to catch you having fun, as you will be today if you are taking advantage of Nickel Day at Revere.

Remember, though, the lens sees you before you see it, so keep smiling.

You'll know the Candid Camera Man by the insignia on his cap. After he snaps you, he will hand you a card telling you what's happening to you—and your picture may be in the Boston American, the Boston Record, or the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday, or any day after that.

If your likeness appears among the few which will be published each day, you will receive a handsome septa seven by nine-inch enlargement of the picture.

Watch for pictures of yourself and your friends, beginning next Sunday and continuing each day thereafter. And watch for further announcements about this unusual feature.

SLAIN GIRL'S MOTHER BATTLES FOR JUSTICE

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 19 (AP)—The mother of Joan Stevens, 14-year-old Nesquehoning girl killed by a Pennsylvania state trooper, said today she would carry a campaign to win "justice and vindication for my daughter" to the White House if necessary.

Mrs. John Stevens saw Governor Arthur H. James yesterday.

"If I don't get justice here," she declared, "I'll go to Washington to get satisfaction. 'I'll see Mrs. Roosevelt.'"

Her daughter was shot a month ago by Corporal Benjamin Franklin of the Pennsylvania motor police, now under bond on a homicide charge while the case awaits grand jury action. He said he fired when the girl drew what looked like an automatic pistol.

District Attorney Albert Heimbach said the girl had a harmless toy.

The governor referred Mrs. Stevens to Attorney General Claude T. Reno.

"We can't prejudice this case," James said later. "In the final analysis it is a matter for a jury to decide."

Mrs. Stevens sobbed as she waited for the governor that she "wasn't even told my daughter was shot until the next day" and declared her belief the girl "never even had so much as a toy pistol, let alone a real pistol."

Ohio Solon Nursed For Ballgame Injuries

WASHINGTON, July 19 (INS)—Walter Reed Hospital today reported that Cong. Robert T. Secrest (D-Ohio) was "resting comfortably," apparently recovering from a head injury he suffered in a softball game at a picnic Saturday. Secrest suffered a broken thumb, a sprained left hand and the head injury when another player collided with him.

Callahan Attacks Big Profits Charge

Far from making 20 per cent profit on a $60,000 state contract in hurricane removal, Patrick J. Holland, Lawrence contractor, made less than 10 per cent, Governor Saltonstall was told today it would be proved in his ouster proceedings against Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan.

The assertion was made by Attorney John L. Murphy, Callahan's brother-in-law, who is defending Callahan in the ouster move by the governor.

Defense auditors, said Murphy, have been over the books of Contractor Holland and have the figures ready to produce in the public hearings.

DENY SQUANDERING

According to Murphy, an auditor and engineer for the defense went over the books and found considerable to support the Callahan contention that no state money was squandered on hurricane contracts.

Still on the witness stand, Callahan himself testified that he had never talked with W. R. Smith, president of the Lane Construction Company of Meriden, Conn., regarding alleged willingness of that firm to accept work of repairing Jacob's Ladder, the Western Massachusetts scenic route.

Smith, witness last week, testified he had offered to do the work for approximately $100,000 less than the amount for which it was awarded.

He said he made the offer to Raymond Colburn, public works engineer in charge of construction.

The Jacob's Ladder contract was the basis for one of the 14 specific charges placed by Governor Saltonstall in his move to oust the Democratic department head.

SOUGHT TO SAVE MONEY

Callahan claims that actually he saved the state money in the hurricane contracts.

Already, he had stated that he had "spent to save the state money in the long run."

"I should have spent more than I did, not less," Callahan said. "It would have been economy in the long run." He testified that when the contracts are completed highways will be in better shape than before the hurricane, but there still remains work to do.

WILL ADD 3 SQUALUS PONTOONS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 19.—Navy officials in charge of the Squalus salvage operations proceeded today on the original plan for raising the submarine by pontoons.

The only major change in the salvage program will be to increase the number of pontoons from seven to ten, announced Rear Admiral Cyrus W. Cole, commander of Portsmouth navy yard.

This decision was reached after a special night session of 12 officers making up the "board of strategy," following encouraging reports from two divers who found the Squalus resting on an even keel with her forward portion still apparently dry inside.

Lieutenant J. K. Morrison and Henry Frye, the divers, risked death to inspect the stricken vessel, entangled in a mass of broken cables and pontoon wreckage.

Admiral Cole stated that as soon as the wreckage is cleared, which will be a two-week task, four pontoons will be attached to the prow of the submarine and six to the stern. Lifting and towing operations will then be followed as before the accident of last week, when the Squalus broke loose.

From W. W. Brown, aide in the Department of Labor, there came from Washington word that there should be no deportation order at least until July 15, 1940.

The stay indicated that the order might not then be picked up "in view of her long residence and advanced age."

The grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Alice Thompson, of Sullivan street, had been told by the Labor Department that she must leave the country because was an alien without a visa and had become a public charge.

Immigration service records showed Mrs. Thompson, a native of England, first came to this country in 1886, lived in Boston until she married William Kelly, a Canadian citizen, in 1927, and then lived with him a year in Canada. Her re-entry, officials said, was made without a permit, or visa, in 1928, and was illegal under the 1924 immigration statute requiring aliens who leave the United States to obtain a re-entry permit or visa if they return.

U. S. Formally Denies Aiding Spy Hunt

PARIS, July 18 (INS)—The United States embassy took the unusual course today of issuing a formal statement denying an intimation appearing in a French magazine that an unnamed American journalist had supplied information of international value to the French government.

The magazine article alleged that the newspaperman had given the information to United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt, who in turn allegedly handed it over to Premier Edouard Daladier.

Dog Gets 'Execution Stay'

SNOWHEGAN, Me., July 18—Wen ever by a woman's loyalty to her dog, authorities here strove today to find some way out for Jumbo, beautiful brown and white collie, who now begins a two months stay of execution.

The short lease of life came when Mrs. Mary E. Lessard, determined that her pet should live, appealed a finding of Judge Maurice F. Merrill.

For Judge Merrill, after hearing the complaint of Summer Hayden, ruled Jumbo must die. The dog was accused, with another animal of biting a cow grazing in the Hayden fields.

Staunchly maintaining her dog was innocent, Mrs. Lessard appealed the finding, halting action until the September term of court.

The woman declared the wounds on the cow's legs were caused by a chain with which it was tethered. She said she was sure that the most Jumbo ever had done was to bark at the animal.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Drop Another 500 From WPA Here

Another 500 Massachusetts relief workers were off the rolls today in the mass firing program which will see WPA shorn of some 27,000 workers in this state by September 1.

Officials refused to announce names of those dropped but admitted the firings will continue this week at a rate of 500 a day, jumping to more than 700 over the week-end.

Among the latest to be let out, their dismissal to take effect July 31, are several hundred "career workers" who have been employed in projects more than 18 months. Under present provisions, all such continuous employment workers dropped cannot again get WPA jobs until a month has passed.

Officials here indicated that more than 3000 workers will be let out in Boston, and that the city as a whole, will be hardest hit in Massachusetts.

It was explained that the rural sections will not be so severely dealt with since seasonal occupation has interfered with completion of 18 months continuous work.

At the same time, it was announced that those dropped for participation in WPA strikes are not permanently barred from WPA, as was believed by many.

All such persons may again apply for work but must wait their turn under the chance that additional funds are appropriated, officials said.

Quiz Witnesses In Plane Deaths

WOODS HOLE, July 19—The coastguard "mercy plane" crash still a mystery, four officers comprising a board of inquiry into the Saturday tragedy which claimed three lives returned by plane to New York today after questioning five witnesses.

Capt. Frederick S. McMurray and four members of the ketch Atlantis, from which the hydroplane had taken a sick man, said the plane took off perfectly. They heard a terrific explosion, and next saw the plane in the water 300 yards away.

All of the witnesses said they saw smoke arise from the plane in the water, but there were no flames.

Only Act of Congress Can Cut WPA Week

(By the Associated Press)

The 130-hour work month for WPA employees in President Roosevelt's opinion, can be changed only by an act of Congress revising the new relief law.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters it was his off-hand judgment that except in an unusual emergency WPA Commissioner Harrington has no authority to waive the requirement, which caused widespread strikes of skilled relief workers last week.

APL leaders had argued that the law gave Harrington authority to restore the prevailing hourly wage scale for skilled workers.

Harrington reported that 32,562 workers had been dismissed for staying away from their jobs five days during the walkouts. He said the number on strike yesterday was 28,511, or fewer than one-third the number out five days previously.

Study Plan to End Beach Pollution

The need of cleaning up Boston harbor will be discussed tomorrow in a State House hearing on recommendations of a special legislative commission, which has drawn up plans to rid Greater Boston beaches of the pollution menace.

Another proposal for sewage disposal which would help keep the harbor clean, suggested by the Boston municipal research bureau, was being studied today.

The Boston bureau's recommendations call for a $3,000,000 treatment plant to be constructed on Flat Island, together with $6,000,000 worth of new sewers along rivers draining into the harbor.

Cost of the program suggested by the legislative commission is estimated at $24,717,000. The research bureau claims the city of Boston is financially unable to carry more than its fair share of the smaller, $7,000,000 scheme.

Meanwhile, United States customs authorities requested investigation by the U. S. district attorney's office of a flagrant case of harbor pollution near the Army base, where huge quantities of oil were reported pumped from a ship.

The matter was due to come before the federal court today, since customs officials claim the discharge of oil constituted a violation of the federal oil pollution act.

Vote Damages In Plane Crash

Eleven Braintree property owners will be paid a total of $15,730 for damages incurred when two navy planes collided and crashed during launching of the air craft carrier Wasp in April, according to terms of a bill passed in the U. S. Senate. The measure now goes to the House for concurrence.

Henry J. Madden, on whose home one plane landed, received $10,194 for damages, while Albert J. LaCoste, owner of a nearby house, was allocated $560 for damages caused by the other plane.

Other property damage awards were granted to Thomas Mallen, $200; Mrs. Herbert E. Rose, $124; Anselm A. Hjortson, $385; Mrs. Victor H. Frazier, $140; Mutual Savings and Loan Assn., $50; Mrs. Edward R. Osborne, $25; Braintree Water Department, $100; William McFaul, $100; and Mrs. Mary Marshall, $100.

New Farm 'Gold Strike' Stirs Ownership Battle

BRONSON, Mich., July 19 (AP)—A second "strike" of gold within a week on a farm near here threatened today to precipitate a legal battle for possession.

Frank Belote, whose three young sons unearthed $1800 in gold coins from a buried tin last Sunday, pulled $1210 more from an old metal cylinder beneath his front porch yesterday. Like the previous find, the money was in gold coins of $10 and $20 denominations, bearing dates prior to 1902.

Belote turned the money over to Sheriff Homer Burns, who deposited it in a bank.

Laddie Krieger, owner of the farm which Belote rents, refused to confirm or deny reports that he had made a find of his own. Both Krieger and Belote retained attorneys to defend their respective claims to the money.

Michigan law provides that after due advertising of the discovery without production of a claimant who can prove ownership, circuit court may award half the money to the finder and half to the county.

Krieger issued orders that Belote was to do no more digging on the farm, to which Belote calmly replied:

"How are you going to farm without digging?"

New Quarters For City Court

The Municipal Court of Boston, housed now these many years in old Young's hotel, is going to move up to the new courthouse building after all.

Bids were out today for renovation work and new construction on the fourth floor and the municipal court will move in by October. The work was ordered after it was reported that Wilfred Bolster, chief justice of the court, had declined to move to the new quarters until provision had been made to improve them.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Roosevelt's crack-down on editorial freedom, severe and of all proportion to the alleged offense, has been interpreted as a blow to the independence of the Fourth Estate.

The administration's action in reprimanding the New York Times for its editorial on the President's handling of the Japanese situation, is being viewed as a precedent for the future. It is being interpreted as a blow to the independence of the Fourth Estate.

PRESIDENT VEToes AWARD TO MOTHER

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The President has vetoed an award to the mother of a marine who died in World War service. The award was made by the War Department.

Young Hummer died on July 20, 1918, and "Unfortunately," Mr. Roosevelt said, no premiums were paid on the insurance since it had been taken out.

Mrs. Hummer was paid $400.50 under the World War adjusted compensation act and is receiving $45 per month in death compensation benefits, he said.

When the President would face the nation his neutrality position has been a long time in the making.

The reason for his doubt likely was that Senate Democrats, led by Barker and Republican Leader McNary, with Frenchan, "have told the country that responsibility for not enacting any neutrality legislation is the Senate's as a body."

At the time his conference in which Secretary Hall participated with him, Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have argued that the Senate failure to act would weaken United States influence in preserving world peace.

But at the time meeting broke in part because of the Senate's refusal to pass the bill. The Senate's refusal to pass the bill was a major factor in the President's decision to call a special session.

Early last information provided by the French service indicated that French troops would move across the border before the regular time of Congress to receive the bill.

period in two or three weeks. The President's intention to take the fight to the country, however, was delayed during a heated discussion with Senator Borah (R-Ill.), a leading opponent of the administration's neutrality program.

Both who voted last week with the majority of the Senate to take no action at his session was described as moving it plain that he never would agree to repeal of the time embargo key point in the President's drive to repeal the law.

In the ensuing discussion, the President was said to have declared himself to be pleased to go to the country to tell the people his views. This Borah was quoted as replying that there also would be discussing the issue and that the people would have a chance to decide which side they believed.

The President's efforts to repeal the law at this session was said to have been delayed about by a personal call at those points taken by Vice President Garner.

Besides the President, Garner, Hall and Borah, those who attended the conference were Frenchan, Senate Leader Barker, Republican

Senator McNary Senator Austin

Leader McNary, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator Austin (R-Vt.) Vermont assistant minority leader.

The impact of the long discussion was that the statements were presented and agreed to by the conference and given to Stephen Early, White House secretary.

The President was represented by some of those present as being particularly anxious that the responsibility for failure to act a failure which he could not avoid the country from 14 if it broke out in Europe be placed squarely on the Senate.

This was reported to have provoked a hot exchange with Borah in which the veteran Idaho Senator, sitting directly opposite the President was quoted as saying:

"Of course the responsibility must rest upon the Senate. Where else could it rest? It is perfectly proper that it should be there. We are not operating under Hitler."

F.R. HITS AT BORAH

In a sharp exchange of views with Borah, one conference said the President felt that the Senator would have his opinions but that he, the President, had firm.

At one point secretary of the President, continued that, at the end of the session, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"You had just as well be candid about this, Captain, you haven't got the votes."

Garner then asked Barker if he thought the administration controlled sufficient votes to do what the Foreign Relations Committee recommended at the time of the meeting.

KEEP U.S. OUT OF WAR

THE RIGHT to keep America out of foreign wars and our young men out of European and Asiatic battlefields has not yet been won.

Powerful forces bent on the destruction of the country's existing neutrality laws and the substitution of legislation that would implicate this country in conflicts abroad continue to bring pressure upon Senators and Representatives.

Consequently the time has come for YOU TO SPEAK and to let the men who represent YOU in your government know that YOU STAND FOR REAL NEUTRALITY AND PEACE.

The slogan at the top of this column gives you that opportunity.

Get your scissors, clip the slogan and paste it near the inspection sticker on the windshield of your automobile in such a manner that it will not obscure your view, or display it in the front window of your home.

America's future, the lives of millions of young men, employment, liberty, freedom and democracy itself depend to a large extent on YOU.

FOREIGN PRODUCTS, streaming through the Port of Boston last week, sent import valuations to $3,433,941, more than double the business for the same week a year ago, according to customs figures released by Collector Joseph McGrath.

During the week ending March 10, foreign products also streamed through the Port of New York—with disastrous results, particularly for workers employed in the packing and culinary industries.

Argentina sent 170,737 pounds of canned corned beef and 23,026 pounds of roast beef in tins; Brazil, 270,000 pounds of canned corned beef; Holland, 120,760 pounds of cooked ham in tins and 24,645 pounds of tinned cooked shoulders; Poland, 143,901 pounds of cooked ham in tins, and 12 other countries, including Nazi Germany, almost as much more.

New York cooks do not have to be told why they are sharing the farmers' depression. After studying a single week's import statistics, THEY KNOW.

AN OLD PROVERB, "The gods help those who help themselves," finds a modern application in civic-minded Ipswich.

Because the Boston and Maine Railroad could not renovate the town's unsightly depot, hundreds of residents contributed dimes and nickels to hire workmen to give the building a new coat of paint.

It would interest both Ipswich and the Boston and Maine to learn how modernization and beautification programs are enriching railroads in other parts of the country.

The stainless steel, lightweight Zephyr trains, moving between Chicago and Denver, earned a net profit of $1,568,831 last year. This was 75.1 per cent of the gross revenue of $2,023,933, or $207 per mile.

The high speed streamlined Hiawathas, between Chicago and the West's Twin Cities, had a gross revenue of $1,337,593, with net earnings of $322 per train-mile.

The El Capitans between Chicago and Los Angeles, went into action in February, 1938. They produced $3000 in revenues that month; $38,000 in March, $19,000 in April, $33,000 in May and $401,000 in June.

SHOULD WOMEN TELL their exact ages? Is a public official exceeding his authority when he requests the sex to reveal this extremely personal information?

The remark of Acting Registrar of Motor Vehicles Anthony A. Bonzagli that automobile licenses are filed under the penalty of perjury causes those questions to be asked.

Not all women are sensitive or sensitive about birthdays. Certainly not the 73-year-old Edna Wallace Hopper, who took up acrobatic dancing at 64.

Or Fannie Brice, the famous comedienne who made her stage debut in the Ziegfeld "Follies of 1910" and who still is a leading entertainer.

Or Mlle. Mistinguette, for 32 years one of Paris' premier danseuses.

Or Elsie Robinson, who at 56 takes her gifted pen and proudly writes: "I'm glad I have life and glad I have dared to live it."

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 19—I stopped the other afternoon to see some friends of mine who have not had a very easy time the past few months. The man has lost part of one foot. Sometimes the pain leaves him entirely and he does not limp, and sometimes he endures acute suffering.

There are two small children in this family, and the oldest one, a boy, must be between five and six years old. When his mother told him that his father could not work and they must be careful of their money for a time, which meant he could only have ice cream on Sundays, he acquiesced solemnly.

From that time on, she said, he would protest if they ever tried to buy ice cream any weekday. Which shows what can be done with youngsters if you give them a feeling of responsibility.

When one suffers, one must, it is possible to keep busy, so, in his spare time, this man has been making models of ships. He had one of a sailing ship which must have taken endless hours of work, but which is really a most satisfactory achievement. I am sure anyone interested in ship models would enjoy seeing it.

I LISTENED last night on the radio to the concert given by Hans Kandler's orchestra in Washington at the water steps. The music was lovely and it must have been a beautiful night.

Human Side of News

ONCE MORE the universities have lost their diplomated torrent of eager young job hunters. And once more those get only cold comfort out of the required reading they did in Juvenal. That chucking old Roman, you may recall, argued deftly that an empty purse offered at least one consolation. It made its owner superior to his fellows.

What the current crop of graduates want, of course, is a different kind of security. For the key to that they must do some reading elsewhere. It might be a good idea for them to take a look at the survey just made public by the Investors' Syndicate of Minneapolis.

IT OFFERS no royal road to a four-ciphered pay check, but it certainly does tell in plain English what the ex-student must have to land a job.

"Character," says the survey, "is the prime factor."

DEAR MISS BEEFKIN:

Would it be proper for my brother, who is 15 years of age, and years younger than I am, to give me away at my wedding, as I have no father? Do you think it would be better for my uncle to give me away?

I tried to read between the lines of your letter to determine when you prefer to have this honor . . . and I think that you would like to have your young brother give you away in marriage. Am I right? I think it would be very fine for you to have your brother do this important duty.

A little while ago I went to one of the loveliest and most touching weddings I have ever attended. The bride's mother and father are dead and she has a big, old brother and two young sisters. The brother gave the bride in marriage and the two sisters were made of honor, walking together and dressed alike. It was an impressive and appealing group that walked with heads up that day.

New Foods for Junior

By MARTHA TEE

ONE OF the finest qualities of the new junior foods now on the market is adaptability. They can be served straight from the tin as interesting, distinct dishes in themselves, or mixed with other foods to produce all manner of variety for the toddlers' menus. Savory soups, fluffy souffles, more elaborate vegetable dishes, the first salads, and simple tasty desserts.

With a family, it is a fine way to introduce the youngsters to new foods. And these foods and grown-ups are selected and grown up to be cooked according to special recipes in small portions. Then they are done in enameled tins to preserve the product and assure a preserved food.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

1 cup tomato soup
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cream (strained tomato and milk)
1 pinch of sugar
cup milk

Melt the butter, add the flour, cooking thoroughly. Add gradually the boiling water, strained tomato and rice, salt and sugar. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Heat the milk, then gradually add to it the thickened tomato and rice. Serves 1 to 2.

VEGETABLE OUSTARD

2 eggs
1 1/2 oz. can chopped carrots, spinach or mixed vegetables
1 tbsp. butter, melted
2 tbsp. milk
1/2 tsp. salt

Beat eggs slightly with a fork. Then add the vegetables, butter, milk and salt, mixing thoroughly with a fork. Pour into buttered individual molds. Set in a pan of warm water, then bake in a slow oven (325 deg. F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Unmold. Serve hot. A few drops each of lemon and lemon juice may be added if desired. Serves 2.

MOIST FRUIT AND VEGETABLE SALAD

1/2 cup plain gelatin
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 oz. can chopped carrots

Soak the gelatin 5 minutes in the cold water. Then add the boiling water, sugar and salt, stirring until dissolved. Cool. Add chopped carrots. Pour into individual molds, then chill until firm. Unmold and serve with mayonnaise or French dressing. Serves 2.

FRUIT CHIALETTE

1 1/2 tsp. plain gelatin
2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup sugar
2 1/2 oz. cans apple, fig and date dessert
1 1/2 cup lemon juice
2 egg whites

1 cup whipping cream, then fold into cream mixture. Soak the gelatin in the cold water, then add boiling water to dissolve. Add sugar, apple, fig and date dessert, lemon juice. Chill until thickened. When concerned, beat and frosty. Beat egg whites and cream and fold into fruit mixture. Then into freezing tray and freeze. This dessert can be served for serving or freeze in individual waxed paper dessert cups. Serves 6.

Love

And Marriage Bright Memory

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a girl who is still in high school, and I'm 20 years old. She told me that she loves me more than anyone. But as she hasn't finished school, we agreed that we wouldn't let the affair become serious, and that she could go out with other boys, and I would take out other girls.

The last time I was with her and we discussed her vacation, I asked if I might see her to the station when she was leaving. She told me another boy was going to take her to the station. If she loves me best of all, why did she let another boy do this act instead of me? She will be away all summer, as her home is in another city.

VICTOR.

Frankly I wouldn't take a small matter like this too seriously. I'd give her a chance to explain, but I would not be too sensitive about it. Why not make a joke of it? Perhaps the other boy asked her first, and since you agreed to "open" you that you would not demand exclusive attention from each other, be a sport about it.

As she has already left, why not send her a box of candy or a bunch of flowers to show her you still love her?

THE LONGWOOD CRICKET CLUB played host to a fairly full house of tennis fans yesterday . . . considering that it was only the second day of the play off in the famous Longwood Bowl tournament. As the week wears on and the matches become more exciting, the celebrated stars competing for a leg on the big silver trophy, will of course attract a much larger gallery . . .

Many of our local fans enjoyed yesterday's matches and took such an interest in the results that there was a crowd of spectators around the score board all afternoon . . .

Kay Winthrop, who defeated Mrs. Carleton Mabley in the morning, lingered on the clubhouse porch for a bite of luncheon and then gave Mrs. Melvin M. (Virginia Rice) Johnson, her former doubles partner, a helping hand with some of the secretarial details of the tournament . . .

Though Mrs. Johnson is as busy as a beaver in her job as chairman of the ladies' tennis committee, she never fails to make her usual voguish appearance . . . Her opening day outfit consisted of a pleated coral wool redingote over a flowered dress, and yesterday she attracted many admiring glances as she buzzed about in a turquoise tucked silk dress with a wide belt of tan leather studded with gold . . . A coronet of the turquoise silk encircled her brown curls . . .

Just off the boat from her wedding trip to Bermuda, and sporting a deep tan, Mrs. Elliot Robbins (Ellanor Petri) enjoyed the matches with her brother, Henry . . . Her blue and white sport pumps carried out the color scheme of her tailored cotton dress and she put on her sun glasses for spectating . . .

Joan Thomson, one of our most avid younger tennis fans, carried two hats . . . a toast straw cartwheel to protect her from the sun, and a little blue turban to match the sash of her navy dress, to slip on if she went dancing later with her fiance, Robert Walcott Day . . .

Mrs. Sherwin Badger of Riverside, Ct., the former Anna Clark of Framingham, made a two some with Mrs. E. Donlan Bacon who wore a modish dress of black linen with a panel of pink down the front . . . Gray linen printed with small dubonnet and white figures fashioned Mrs. Badger's dress and matching hat . . .

Barbara Salt and Peggy Cutler collected a few autographs of their favorite players and Polly Morrill, who was defeated by Virginia Wolfenden in the early rounds, consoled herself by sitting on the sidelines to watch her house guest, Hope Knowles, fight it out in a match with Virginia Ellis . . .

Wedding Bells to Ring

WEDDING BELLS are soon to ring for Miss Sarah Winslow and Mr. Charles E. Cotting, whose engagement is announced by the former's mother, Mrs. Arthur Winslow of Chardesa Farm, Middleboro . . . The future bride is a member of the Chilton Club, and Mr. Cotting, who is spending the summer at his estate in West Manchester, is a member of the class of 1911 at Harvard . . . His clubs include the Myopia Hunt, Essex County and Somerset Club . . .

Regis Alumnae Party July 28

A long and distinguished list of members and friends of the Alumnae Association of Regis College will gather Friday night, July 28, for the organization's first summer formal party.

The gala affair will take place at Cliff Hotel in North Scituate, and supper will be served.

Directing plans for the evening is Lois J. McCarthy, class of 1938, assisted by an enthusiastic group of co-members. Among them are Margaret E. McDermott of Dedchester, ticket chairman; and Mrs. Edmund L. McGovern of Newton, who is president of the association and heads the reception committee.

Others are Mary Malloy of Jamaica Plain, Catherine Higgins of Watertown, Mildred Sherman of Dorchester, Frances Reardon of West Medford, Mary Melanson of Malden, and Louis Friary of Brookline.

Also Marie Donahoe of Natick, Betty Sutton of Arlington, Grace Gal of Auburndale, Clare Morgan of Jamaica Plain and Helen Lordon of Watertown.

LUNCHEON-BRIDGE AT YACHT CLUB

Bridge tables were set up on the wide verandas of the Cornutman Yacht Club in Marblehead this noon for a luncheon-bridge party which attracted many of the summer colonists of the North Shore.

After an invigorating swim in the club's new turquoise pool, such prominent summer residents as Mrs. Frank G. Allen, wife of a former governor of Massachusetts, Mrs. Harry Noyes and Mrs. Robert Wigglesworth, adjourned to the clubhouse for the party.

Among the many others with table reservations were Mrs. George Spaulding, Mrs. Edward Winslow, Mrs. Raymond Stevens, Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. Stanley D. Forbes, Jr., Mrs. Willard Hayden, Mrs. Norman McDonald, Mrs. Ralph Jones and Mrs. Wilfred Shrigley.

ANNOUNCE NEW SON

Mr. and Mrs. HARRY C. HOBBS of Wollaston are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Jay Harry Hobbs, on July 16th at the Quincy City Hospital.

Plimpton Nuptials August 12

Miss Rosemary Plimpton, attractive Alice H. "Allice" Plimpton, afterward when she marries down the aisle of St. Paul's Church in Dedham to become the bride of Alanson Trank Evans 3rd, on August 12th.

Carolyn Pierce of Milton will be the maid of honor at the wedding ceremony. The bridesmaids will include the Misses Lucilla Thorndike of Millis, A. Soule of Dedham, Molly Ayer of Milton, Emily Plimpton of New York, Susan and Jean Enos of Greenwich, Ct., sisters of the prospective bridegroom, Martha Bird of Medford and F.W. Harris of New York (Betty Ware) of New York.

The wedding reception will take place at Leveson in W. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Plimpton of Norwood, a member of the Junior League. Mr. Enos, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Enos Jr., of Greenwich, graduated from Harvard this year and is now in business in New York where the couple will make their home.

David Scull of Boston, who will be married on August 5th to Patricia Grant of Northeast Harbor, Me., will be best man at the Enos-Plimpton nuptials, and the ushers will include the Messrs. Philip Dean and W. Russell Peabody of Boston and eight out-of-town friends of the bridegroom.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs, and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

AMONG MEMBERS of the Alumnae Association of Regis College planning a supper dance for Friday night, July 28, is Frances Reardon of West Medford. The affair will be held at the Cliff Hotel in North Scituate.

MARGARET HART ENGAGED TO WED

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hart have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Albert Elwell Grannan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Grannan of Arlington.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Teachers' College at Lowell. Mr. Grannan attended Milton Academy and is a Holy Cross graduate.

Another interesting engagement is that of Irene Louise Farrell, daughter of Mrs. Frank Farrell of Boston, to John J. Riley of Boston, a graduate of Boston Latin School, Harvard University and Boston College Law School.

Holiday influences made a sharp dent in the domestic business activity line. In comparison with the experience of other years the decline assumes an alarming appearance. But it is not in accord with the facts behind the slump.

THE CHART... Presented today with this column shows the index dropped from 81.6 to 68.4. A far more severe loss than is usually experienced over the "fourth"...

The answer is found in personal business influences and the position of the holiday in the week itself. Of the individual components, automobile production and electric power output were tapering for seasonal reasons and the shutdown simply accentuated declines...

Steel ingot output was sharply curtailed largely because key plants curtailed from Friday night through Wednesday instead of attempting to open for Monday. Freight car loadings shrank markedly in reflection of the same holiday attitude in the great variety of industries supplying traffic...

PROPHETIC... Of better things after the short working week with which July began, the index gain shown by commercial loans... It belied the poor showing of the composite index number...

And judging by partial reports of business now available for the post-holiday week it alone sensed the trend to better things... Already steel output has bounced back... Not only was the loss recovered but a new high established... Carloadings are only partially complete at this writing but it is our guess they also rose to a new peak... Building contracts, impetuous to summer holiday and seasonal...

New Private Business Standards
Economic Commentator

A double standard of morality has developed in recent years. Government at home and abroad has imposed new high ethical and publicity standards on private business, but does not feel called upon itself to live up to its own precepts.

For example, in this period of full disclosure of financial transactions of private corporations, many governments have been conducting in utter secrecy blind foreign exchange pools operating under such high-sounding names as exchange equalization funds. While frowning on private manipulation, government officials have sought to manipulate the course of foreign exchange rates. The stated objective of the politicians in each case is of course most worthy.

None except the Secretary of the Treasury and the President are informed about the current operations of our own stabilization fund. The prototype of all such funds for "managing currency" in the British equalization fund set up in 1931. It has operated in secrecy, and Influences, should continue to at least hold their own. And there one has the simple, overlooked explanation of what happened to the stock market this week. Such for trade winds are entitled to the recognition stock prices accorded them...

MACHINE TOOL... Makers are being given increasing attention... Just week we wrote here of the business, their efforts. And a Boston stock exchange firm tells the situation sufficiently important to warrant a special review...

Hornblower & Weeks has prepared a brochure on the machine tool industry... In which the underlying causes of the apace are analyzed... And the foremost companies in the field are considered individually... Of great interest to us was the conclusion reached... That the industry should do a larger than normal business over the next few years... Because of the facts behind demand for machine tool products... Which should mean pleasant times ahead for many N. E. communities quartering such shops...

Buyers Halt Moderate Market Dip

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Stocks dipped in today's market, but losses were measured in fractions. After a moderate opening in which leaders lost as much as a point, buying support stepped in and checked the downward tendency.

Advertising Gains In Hearst Magazines

LOS ANGELES, July 19 (AP)—The advertising gains for Hearst magazines in the first six months of the year are reported to be the largest in the industry. The gains are reported to be the largest in the industry.

"While all magazine publishers report that their advertising gains for the first six months of the year are greater than for the same period last year," Mellichamp declared, "it is particularly gratifying for me to be able to say that the Hearst magazines are showing proportionately greater increases."

Commenting on the high standards of western advertisers, Mellichamp cited the success of the All-Year Club of Southern California as a consistently outstanding example. Mellichamp, who flew to California to attend the annual convention of the San Francisco and the Gate International Exposition.

Another definite trend noted by Mellichamp is the marked swing back to the printed word as against the radio, which has been the other way and other which media.

U. S. Inflation Period Seen

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Inflation will be the next period of the public debt, it is predicted by some economists.

"Inflation is already here," said one of the speakers at the conference, which included the president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, President Herbert Hoover.

"Some sort of occurrence will set it off—don't ask me when," said another speaker. "It is the result of the conference, which included the president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, President Herbert Hoover."

AUSTEN LAKE

Dizzy Threatens; Mrs. Dean Smiles

CHICAGO, July 19—Dizzy Dean, the Cubs' pixilated pitcher, wanted to hide his gashed forearm in the recess of the Surf Hotel. But Mrs. Patricia Dean his helpmeet did not. So the sweet voice sang a coloratura "come up" into the house phone and I came.

Diz, a length of surgical bandage below his shirt sleeve glowered like a grumpy bear. But Mrs. Dean yielded a toothpaste smile. Diz was in the dumps, but Mrs. Pat bubbled with artificial good humor.

"For two cents I'd quit baseball for good," growled the man who once styled himself as one of the seven great pitchers of history. "I'm tired of being made the goat. I took it in St. Louis. . . . His upper lip curled back like a window sash. . . . I'm sick of it. I'm . . .

"I'm . . ."

"You're tired, dear," cooed Mrs. Dean sweetly, arranging her auburn hair before a gold rimmed mirror. "Tired my neck!" snorted Diz, rising abruptly and disappearing into the family bathroom. A sound of running water was followed by some dusty gargling and a final explosive "phooie."

"Jerome is such a worrier," said Mrs. Pat, fussing with a pot of paper flowers, "poor dear, he's so earnest about his work and I'm afraid so misunderstood by the press. . . . She thrust a pensive forefinger against a dimpled cheek, clucking her tongue sally as Diz emerged from the bathroom.

"I'm sick of being the goat," he repeated. "Look's like Hartnett needed an alibi for a bum club."

The telephone rang and Dizzy answered, holding his ailing arm close to his side. "Yeh," he said sulkily. "Naw! We don't want no more pictures. . . ."

Mrs. Dean smoothed her broadcloth lap. "Jerome," she scolded, "you're a nice boy. Let him come up. It's just as easy to make friends. . . . She made a reproving pucker of red lips behind Diz's back.

"Awright!" growled Dean into the receiver, "C'mon then."

A short fat man with a hard, impersonal eye came carrying an armload of apparatus. "Hi!" he greeted informally. "Hi!" said Diz in lower key. "Want one'a you hugging your milson," commanded the fat man.

Diz wound his good arm around Patricia, a little ungraciously, and the actress turned up the sunshine of her smile, plumply cleft. But Diz looked grumpy. "You too, Dizzy!" demanded the fat man, as Dean curled his rubbery mouth in a grudging grin. The fat man snatched his patent belt and juggled his plate holders. "Now one hold, let the milson on your knee."

"That's out!" yelled Dean with a ferocious pucker. "I ain't never . . ."

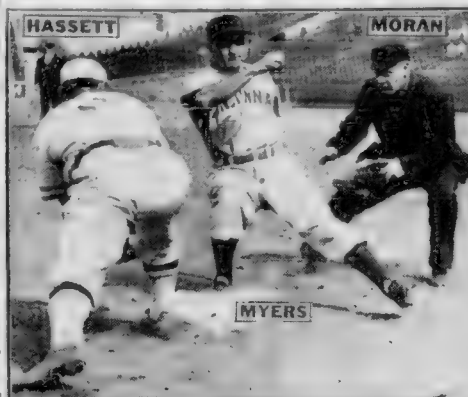

"His voice trailed uncertainly as Mrs. Dean arched her eyebrows and beamed mock amusement, her manicured, red finger tips postured against her bosom. "Why Jerome!" she said. "Awright then!" said

CRONIN GIVES WILLIAMS CREDIT FOR SOX SURGE

By JOE CASHMAN

CHICAGO, July 19—Our Red Sox will have reached the half-way mark in their 1939 race when they complete a second successive double-header with the White Sox this afternoon.

Billy Myers of Cincinnati was almost nipped at first base in the seventh inning after he drew a walk. Umpire Moran was on the play and called the runner safe. He later scored on two successive singles by Derringer and Gamble.

STENGEL PICKS BEES TO FINISH IN MONEY

By BILL GRIMES

"As I see it, the National League pennant isn't going to be won this season," prophesied Manager Casey Stengel of the Bees this morning. "It's going to be lost by some club."

Since Eddie Miller fractured a bone in his leg during the second game of Sunday's double header with the Cincinnati Reds, O' Case has been singing the blues.

Manager Casey Stengel has been around the National League long enough to know all of the answers. He realizes that there isn't an outstanding club on President Ford Field's circuit and even a combination of expert statisticians and orator cannot convince O' Case that if he'd got the pitching this spring and Tony Cuccinello hadn't been out of the line up for a month that the Bees wouldn't be the pace-makers of the National League.

ANXIOUS TO TRADE

"We're doing everything possible to strengthen the Bees" Casey stated this morning. "I cannot tell

While we haven't the official figures at hand, it's safe to say that, regardless of how it fires today, the current Zerkow flock will enter the second half of the campaign with the best record of any Back Bay outfit since the last championship club of 1918.

Thanks mainly to a phenomenal spurt since the first of this month the Croninmen can boast of 44 victories in their first 73 games for a .640 average.

Eighteen American League and 26 National League clubs in the past 34 years have won pennants with lower percentages.

And right now a .640 average in the National League race would leave its owner with a 17-point advantage over the Cincinnati Reds, who have a 7 1/2 game lead in the senior circuit.

But, and to relate, for all their speed our heroes aren't close enough to the top in the American League at the moment to write home about. They split a twin bill with Chicago yesterday, winning the first game 13 to 10 and losing the second 8 to 5.

With all other rivals still folding up against the Yanks, the Croninmen now find themselves eight games behind the pace-setters despite having won eight out of 12 games from the New Yorkers to date.

That's a lot closer than the 13 1/2 games they were behind on the first day of this month, but it's a wider gap than they can hope to close unless they start getting a little help from the other six clubs in the loop in a hurry.

The Sox started out on this third Western invasion trailing the Bombers, whom they had just finished beating five straight, by 6 1/2 games.

DROOP DESPITE VICTORIES

Since then they've taken five out of seven games from the Indians, Tigers and White Sox and yet have fallen 1 1/2 games more behind. The Yanks, you see, after losing the opener of a series in Detroit, have galloped to seven wins in a row over the Tigers, Indians and Browns.

That must be slightly discouraging, to say the least, to a club that is playing perhaps the best second-place ball in the history of the junior wheel.

But it doesn't detract any from the great run the team has made over the first half of the race. Oddly enough, the Croninmen can

Comiskey Well-Liked By Players

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—Eugene J. Comiskey, president and owner of the Chicago White Sox removed from baseball one of the most colorful "second generation" leaders in the history of the sport.

Victim of a heart attack, Comiskey died in the same summer home at Fox River, Wis., where he was born, his father, Charles A. Comiskey, died eight years ago at the age of 72.

He had been ill a week and in a coma since Monday.

SATURDAY GAME OFF

Comiskey, who was 54 and the only son of the noted "Old Roman," founder of the club, was survived by the widow, Grace; two daughters, Dorothy, 22, and Grace Lou, 18, and a son, Charles, 20, 13.

The body will be brought here tonight, and funeral services will be held Saturday.

As American League custom, the White Sox Saturday game with the New York Yankees will be postponed.

Harry Grabner, who started in the White Sox organization 36 years ago as an office boy, and served as vice-president of the club under both Comiskies, will continue in charge of the club.

News of Comiskey's death was received at Comiskey Park while the White Sox were winning the second game of a double-header with the Boston Red Sox.

No public announcement was made, but at Grabner's order the flag in center field was lowered to half-staff.

PLAYERS LIKED HIM

Comiskey—Lou to his intimates—was tremendously popular with his players and the business staff. He was regarded as a genuine sportsman and rarely quibbled over salaries with his players.

HURLS NO-HITTER

HOUSTON, Tex., July 19 (AP)—Ernest White, 22-year-old southpaw, pitched a no-hit game as Houston defeated Fort Worth 2-0 in the Texas League last night. Only three men reached first, all on walks.

JOHNNY PEACOCK, Red Sox catcher, safe at far turn in third inning of first game of twin bill with White Sox. That's Eric McNair, ex-Red Soxer, awaiting throw.

Williams Leader In Runs Batted In

Thank their road showing for their splendid record.

Notorious for stumbling and staggering on the trails in recent years, this gang has won 30 out of 40 starts away from home.

On the other hand, at home, where it was next to invincible the past few years, it's had to be satisfied with a mediocre 18-17 slate.

However, with 45 tilts remaining to play at Fenway Park, it still has ample opportunity to regain its virtually invincible home stride of old and, if it should, anything can happen.

Ask Joe Cronin to explain the surprising success of the team on the trails this year and he'll point to Teddy Williams.

FEDDY TERRIFIC

"Most foreign fields," he explains, "are made to order for left-handed sluggers. We had none in my past years as Sox pilot. We now have one of the greatest ever to flash across the big league horizon in this Williams boy."

ing a bit when he says that.

Terrific Teddy is getting more terrifically on the trail.

Since the start of the memorable series with the Yanks, Thumping Theodore has hit at a .370 gait, knocked in nine runs and hit three home runs in 12 games.

His bat provided the margin of victory in two of the tilts with the Bombers. A home run of his was the turning point in the Sox victory in Cleveland last Saturday. Another of his round trippers sent his mates into a two-run lead they couldn't hold on the final game in Detroit. In yesterday's double-header with the White Sox at Fenway, late he was the outstanding performer on the field in both tilts.

In the opener, which the Cronin men won, 13 to 10, he matched earlier homers by Elden Auker and Jimmy Foxx with his 15th round tripper, a 400-foot drive into the upper tier of the right field stands, to score "Double N" in front of him in the eighth. He finished that game with three hits and three runs batted in to his credit.

In the nighttime, which the Sox

So at this writing he tops all American Leaguers with an astounding R. B. I. total of 77 and is third in the home run race in this his freshman campaign. Moreover, he established himself as one of the classiest defensive right fielders in the league.

But if Terrific Teddy had one of the most glamorous days of his career, it was yesterday.

Neither Elden Auker nor Jackson Dickman had anything to fear. The Pale Horse in the open game, and the Sox in the nightcap, were both out of the woods. Auker came in to face the Sox in the eighth, and again they failed.

Trunkman yielded a tally which let the Sox break a 5-5 tie in the seventh. Auker came in to hand out four passes in the eighth, and the Sox broke the tie with a hit.

The Sox then scored two runs without a hit.

JIMMY FOXX slides into third after tripling to deep center in eighth inning of first game with White Sox. Clout helped Boston win opener, 13 to 10.

Donald No. 1 Rookie Pitcher

NEW YORK, July 12 (INS)—

There may be room for argument about the rookie catcher, in fielder or outfielder of the year, but there shouldn't be any about the No. 1 rookie pitcher. He is Atley Donald of the Yanks.

It's all very well to say that anybody should and could win with the Yanks behind him, but the young man certainly couldn't win 11 straight games without a defeat, even with the Yanks, unless he had something on the ball.

He has given up only 89 hits in 104 innings this year, and that's pretty fair pitching in any league.

He didn't need any more help than he got from Gordon's 15th homer to win the first half of yesterday's double-header, 3 to 0, because he gave the Browns only three hits.

In short, unless our memory is at fault, that was the first shut out anybody has scored this year against the Browns who, if they can do nothing else, surely can make life miserable for a pitcher.

Bees, Start Buzzing!

Those Wheaties-Eating Cubs Are on The Loose!

Wheaties in their bat bags, homers on Boston Bees at National League, and their minds—that's the luring Chicago Cubs. And when they amble into action against these sharpshooters, look out for a few more.

When a Cub meets up with Wheaties—Look out for action! Like lots of his namesakes on the Chicago Cubs squad, this brain counts on a swell feed when he gets a strange hold on that Wheaties box!

If you crave action at the break, many big league eaters who say that fast table, take a tin from the Wheaties box.

Lo, Harvest and Games. Take your Wheaties, a hearty breakfast, a full day's work, and a good night's sleep. Wheaties is the best of all breakfast cereals.

"Breakfast of Champions"

WHEATIES WITH MILK OR CREAM AND FRUIT

Wheaties with milk or cream and fruit is a delicious and nutritious breakfast. It's the best of all breakfast cereals.

JOE LOUIS CAN be beaten by a young heavyweight with courage, aggressiveness and a punch, according to Peter Dunne . . . In his day, Peter was one of the best lightweight boxers in the East . . . He doesn't carry a single mark from the ring wars which is proof of the skill he possessed.

Dunne used to box under the management of Jim MacDonald . . . Following his retirement from the ring, Peter located in New Haven and became associated with the Bond Clothing Co. . . . He has come here as manager of Bond's Boston store . . . Peter admitted to me he weighs a bit more than 185 pounds . . . In recent years, Dunne has kept his hand in the boxing game as a licensed referee in Connecticut . . . You may expect to meet the old-time lightweight star as soon as boxing is resumed at the Garden in the Fall . . . Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club says he will stage a ring show at the Garden the latter part of September.

Baseball is doing its share to make life cheerful for the youth of America . . . Bob Quinn had 8000 youngsters as guests of the Bees in an event sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars . . . It is no longer necessary for youngsters to look through knot holes to see major league ball games . . . They now have choice seats, a band, and plenty of pop and peanuts . . . Baseball will receive dividends on such days in the years to come, and even if it doesn't it can feel it is doing good in an age when youth is faced by many vexing problems and a questionable business future.

"My contract expires this year, and I want to have a good season for the sake of the club and myself," Joe Cronin said to me at Sarasota last Spring.

Joe has been receiving $25,000 a year for the past five years . . . It is a cinch Cronin's contract will be renewed by Yawkey who has a great personal fondness for Cronin apart from his admiration of Joe as a great ball player and leader of men . . . If the Red Sox win the pennant, Cronin will be permitted to write the terms of his new contract.

Bob Quinn took the loss of Eddie Miller, sensational shortstop like a true soldier.

"Sure, it was a tough break," said Bob, "but that's all part of baseball . . . Players get hurt, and unfortunately in this case it was Miller whom I consider the best shortstop in the league . . . Today or tomorrow some other players may be put out of the game."

As Quinn talked, Lou Chiozza of the Giants had his leg broken in the same kind of play that wrecked Miller.

Don't Mention Pennant

Watch the Sox win something, but Joe Cronin says you cannot call it by its title name. We're trying to win it, and we cannot even name it.

RED SOX ROOKIE.

How About Simmons?

It was a tough blow to the Bees when Eddie Miller was put out of the game with a fractured leg, but don't you think the sports writers failed to give Al Simmons consideration? Al was also hurt, but nobody seemed enough interested in this hard working outfielder to give him much attention.

Simmons was in no way responsible for the accident to Miller. The ball was in Simmons' territory when Miller tried to catch it, Leake as if there should be zones for infielders and outfielders now that so many players are getting hurt in collisions.

RAYMOND TIRRELL, Belmont.

Passed Up Napper Tandy

Your story that we were given a hot tip on Napper Tandy was right, and as you said we played the nag last week instead of on Monday when he won. We went for everything but the town pump.

BEACHMONT.

Likes Pastor's Chances

With the distance of the Louis-Pastor bout 20 rounds, I think Pastor is a cinch to win if the champion falls to score a knockout inside of ten rounds. Louis has always shown poorly in bouts that have gone more than eight or nine rounds.

FIGHT FAN.

Random Shots at Target

HONEY MELODY of Charlestown has signed to meet Bob Montgomery in Philadelphia on next Monday night . . . Dem Wakerlis, Greek middleweight, will appear in a ten-round bout in Washington on Monday night . . . There will be a boxing show at Athol on Friday evening with Jack Dempsey opposing Barney Villa.

Dizzy Dean still manages to make the headlines even when he isn't pitching . . . Regardless of how Dizzy got his left arm cut, the mishap was not helpful to the Cubs . . . Dean has proved a failure with the Cubs since purchased from St. Louis for $185,000 . . . Branch Riser has proved one of the great traders of baseball.

The handle at the dog track at Wonderland Park is $700,000 ahead of the same number of nights a year ago, while Dighton shows an increase of $200,000 for the same number of nights, according to Charles F. Connors, chairman of the Massachusetts Racing Commission . . . An effort is still being made to change the racing law so as to permit horse and dog racing between August 14 and October 1 . . . It is argued that a change in the law would result in additional revenue to the State.

FAR WEST DOMINATES LONGWOOD

Today was "California Day" at the Longwood Bowl.

The ranking match in the men's quarter-finals had two of California's top-ranking representatives, David Freeman, the 18-year-old junior champion of the United States, and Robert Lowe, 20-year-old Stanford University sophomore, stacked up against each other in what might be the slickest battle of the entire week's play.

In moving along to the quarter-finals, both Lowe and Freeman have caught the fancy of the Longwood fans. Along with being young, aggressive and colorful, both courtmen have showed they are exceptionally capable of turning in a well-rounded game of tennis.

Lowe pulled the major upset of the tourney yesterday, soundly whipping Gilbert Hunt of Washington, D. C., the No. 2 seeded performer.

SERVICE EAST

In hoodwinking the Washington resident, Lowe thrilled those who caught the match with his cannonball service and fancy volleying.

Freeman, the son of a California minister, had at the least trouble reaching the quarterfinals. Like Lowe, his game has been a dynamite all the way.

The tourney's other headlines, Gene Mako, seeded No. 1; Adrian Quist, also seeded No. 1; Jack Crawford, seeded No. 2; Gardner Mulvey, seeded No. 4, and Johnny Doeg, seeded No. 8, all were down for third-round or quarterfinal matches today.

The best match yesterday saw Johnny Doeg, the veteran of so many tournaments, play his heart out to defeat youthful Edmond Alloo of San Francisco, 6-4 and 9-7.

Alloo, classed by the experts as a real "come" in the court game, also had Doeg dizzy with his sensational volleying in the second set. Only the added experience in tourney competition saved the day for Doeg.

QUIST WINS EASILY

The two gentlemen from the Land Down Under, Quist and Crawford, won default matches in the opening round, while Quist walloped Timothy J. Dacey, 6-1 and 6-3, in his second round affair.

The four top-seeded women players, Helen Pederson of Stamford, Conn.; Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco, Cal.; Katherine Winthrop of Boston, and Helen Bernhard of New York, won their way into the third round.

Boston's favorite and a good bet to take this year's laurels, Katherine Winthrop, received a bye in her first round and then lipped Mrs. C. R. Mabley of Brookline, 6-3 and 6-0, in her second round.

Other women to move on in the tournament play by virtue of first-round triumphs are Edna Smith, Mary Arnold, Mrs. E. K. Nash, Pauline Betz, Marilyn McRae, Barbara Bradley and Mrs. Raymond Drabon.

Ladies who took double victories yesterday were Mary Lou Johnson of Los Angeles, Cal.; Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco, Cal.; Louise Raymond of Seaside, Penn.; and Eunice Dean of Huston, Tex.

Last Minutes Hardest, Says Ocean Skipper

HONOLULU, T. H., July 19 (INS).—First to cross the finish line of the 26-yacht San Francisco-Honolulu sailing regatta, Dick Laynes of Long Beach, skipper of the victorious Contender, today described the final minutes of the 15-day crossing as "the toughest part of the whole darn race."

After the Contender dropped anchor, three other entries were knifing the heavy seas and also making a big run to finish before high sun today.

They were Ed Fakley's 85-foot schooner, Pandango, from Los Angeles; Biltana, 56-foot cutter owned by tobacco heir R. J. Reynolds of New York; and Chubasco, 67-foot yawl skippered by W. L. Stewart, Jr., of Los Angeles.

Picard, Nelson Shoot For Guldahl's Title

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP).—It's hard to figure it out any way except that Byron Nelson and Henry Picard are the men to beat in this week-end's western open golf tournament, a calculation of which defending champion Ralph Guldahl no doubt is keenly aware.

ALICE SINGS IN LONDON

LONDON, July 19 (AP).—Alice Marble promised to return next year and defend her all-England tennis title as she went sightseeing by automobile before sailing for home today on the Champlain.

She predicted that the Wightman Cup competition at Forest Hills next month would be a "close affair."

Last night the San Francisco girl sang two numbers on the British television program.

Gardenias Seek League Lead

While the Olympets and the Startlets of New Haven are billed as the feature game at the Garden tomorrow evening, the preliminary tussle between the Robabath Milkmaids and the Gardenias promises to steal the spot light.

This is another Met League affair, and first place in the league is the prize of contention.

As an added spice the Gardenias will be out to revenge an earlier reverse at the hands of the Milkmaids.

Their bright star of that eventful evening was their pitcher, Ella Lyons, who restricted the Gardenias to six hits.

Donovan to Referee Galento-Nova Bout

NEW YORK, July 19 (INS).—Arthur Donovan, New York's crack referee, will go to Philadelphia on September 7 to act as the third man in the ring when Lou Nova meets Tony Galento in a 15-round bout.

Philadelphia wanted the Nova and Galento bout badly and rather than lose it, the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission has consented to have Donovan officiate.

BEES vs. CHICAGO
Seats at Finner's Men's Store, Feb. 2195

Alice Marble of California, and Bobby Rigg of Chicago, recently enthroned as the women's and the men's Wimbledon tennis champions find a bit of relaxation while dancing at the championship meeting ball held in London after the close of tournament week. Reports have it that Miss Marble will seek another world to conquer, the world of singing. Bobby seems content to go along as one of the world's best netmen.

Guldahl won the Western title when he couldn't win anything else back in 1936 and maybe a victory in the 40th annual renewal of the fixture will set him off on another winning streak in major competition, but first he must dispose of the red-hot Nelson-Picard twosome, as well as a lot of other topflight golfers.

Since winning his first Western Open three years ago, Guldahl has added two more Westerns to make it three in a row and has won and lost the National Open title. Now he faces a possible shutout in the summer pro title league.

Nelson, National Open champion, and Picard, the new U. S. A. champion, are the shotmakers who have stolen his thunder.

This trio and about 250 other pros and amateurs will tee off Friday over the Medinah Country Club course in the first round of the 72-hole medal play event. Another 18 holes follow Saturday and the final 36 Sunday.

Victory in the Western counts 60 points in the Vardon race. Picard leads now with 393 points. Nelson has 353, Sam Sneed, 268, Dick Metz, 231, and Guldahl 199. Picard also tops the money winners, having earned $4177 this year.

Referee's Ear Bitten Off!

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 19 (AP).—George Regtko, former southern golden gloves champion, was of the opinion today that refereeing a wrestling match may be dangerous business.

He came to that conclusion last night when the lower inch and a half of his left ear was bitten off as he attempted to separate two wrestlers in a match here.

Narragansett Bosses Boost Stake Prizes

PAWTUCKET R. I., July 19.—The management of Narragansett Park today announced a substantial boost in the daily purse distribution during the summer meeting, which starts August 14 and continues through to September 16. Under the new schedule the minimum purse at Ganett will be $1200 with the exception of two races daily for horses of $1220-$1000 claiming value, when the minimum purse will be $1000. The average purse distribution, exclusive of stakes, will be $3800 with purses ranging from $1200 to $1600 occupying at least six places on the daily card.

Judge James E. Dooley and his advisors do not claim the purse increase as an outburst of generosity on their part. Rather has the new schedule been worked out carefully as a compensation to owners and trainers for the abandonment of mid-week stakes. The money that otherwise would have been offered for Wednesday stake races, will instead, be divided and added to purses during the week.

Mid-week stakes, for some unfathomable reason, have never won an unqualified success in New England. All too frequently valuable events run on Wednesdays have produced mediocre results and sport that fell short of stake quality.

By distributing stake moneys over eight races daily, for overnight handicappers, allowance affairs and long distance races, the management believes it has found the correct solution for stepping up the quality and tempo of this entire program from first race to last.

Two races, a sprint and a distance event, will be programmed daily for horses of $1250-$1000 claiming value; the better horses get their crack at the $1200, $1300, $1500, and $1600 purses.

HOLLYWOOD has no monopoly on beauty contests. They're held in the equine world, too. Meet "Miss America" of the Percheron draft horse world. She is Lancinate, winner of a nationwide equine "beauty contest," is declared, by leading livestock judges, the perfect Percheron mare. She is owned by Conner's prairie farm, Noblesville, Ind., and has won the grand championship for mares at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago the past two years. Frances McFarland congratulates the "beauty queen."
